

Say Hello to Rex!

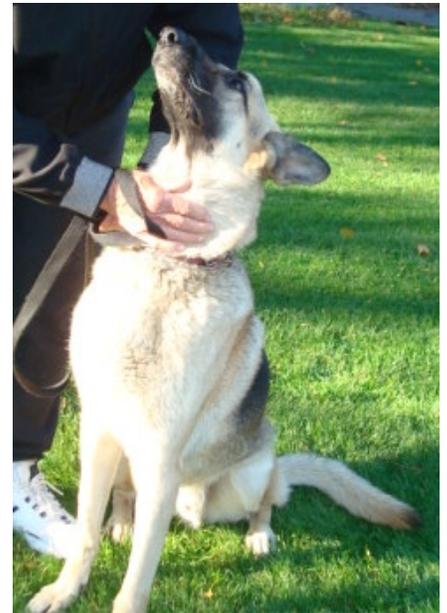

Say hello to Rex! Rex is a 7 year old blonde and black male who is looking for a new family because his senior family could no longer care for him. Rex is a well mannered, sweet dog who has been kept crated or outside on a run because his owners could not safely walk him any longer due to their own medical issues.

He is good with other dogs as long as introduced properly. He is also good with children although we recommend older children due to his size, and loves people. He has never been around a cat, but would like to chase small animals, so a feline-free home would be best suited.

Rex has had training and walks well on-leash, knows his basic commands and would love to learn more. He is a good boy who is eager to please and responds well to positive reinforcement and affection.

A fenced yard is preferred for Rex's new home. His new family would also be required to attend training to brush up on his obedience skills and promote bonding with his new people. Rex just wants a home with lots of love and attention, and a warm bed to curl up in at night. He will bond quickly with his new family, and be the perfect addition you've been looking for!

Rex is neutered, house and crate trained and up to date on his vaccinations. He currently weighs about 85 lbs and is on a high-quality food diet, which should be continued.
